

Note: This is not a template for everyone to follow, but the final report should at least state clearly the contents listed in the bold font as the title in each part.

Form: The Report is handed in in the form of group report, but each individual of the team are encouraged to hand in their personal report stating not only their own contributions to the project but also their thoughts, feelings throughout this entire process. This would possibly be able to earn you some extra credits.
